Happiness.

A fair and exquisite and fragile [illegible]
Broken in a million pieces;
Shattered, scattered, far and near.
Now and then, along life's pathway,
Lo! some shining fragment will—
But there are so many pieces
No one ever finds them all.

You may find a bit of beauty,
Or an honest share of wealth,
While another, just beside you,
Gathers honor, love or health.
Vain to choose or grasp unduly,
And there are so many pieces
No one ever finds them all.

Yet the wise, as on they journey,
Treasure every fragment clear,
Fit them, as they may, together,
Imagine the shattered sphere,
Learning ever to be thankful
Though their share of it is small—
For it has so many pieces
No one ever finds them all.
—Priscilla Leonard, in Youth's Companion.

The Length of Life.

Are your sorrows hard to bear?
Life is short!
Do you drag the chain of care?
Life is short!

Soon the weary [illegible] spun,
And the final [illegible] the fort!
Life is short!

Are you faint with hope delayed?
Life is long!
Tax the strength [illegible]
Life is long!
What delights [illegible]
What ambitions [illegible]
What possessions [illegible] be
In God's great estate!
Lift the heart! [illegible] and strong!
Life is long!

With a jumping and thumping of [illegible]
And a [illegible] of steels,
With a screaming and screaming of whistles [illegible]

[illegible] and spray-ing of spouts,
With a shorting, cavorting,

HOW THE CAP'N SAVED THE DAY.

By Walter Williams.

HE WAS such a little [illegible] The [illegible] blood in the [illegible] and [illegible] he was. He had [illegible] children.

But one day the [illegible] fell—and [illegible] The regiment was [illegible] on guard duty. The men [illegible] serve miles away from [illegible] fare, and had grumbled [illegible] They were eager to [illegible] ism by fighting.

The opportunity came. The regiment [illegible] by a forced march, [illegible] camp. The pickets were surprised, captured or driven in. The regiment was at breakfast. There was a hurried call to arms, and lines were formed as rapidly as possible under the fire. But the attack came with such swiftness and force that the regiment was borne back. Slowly they retired at first, and then the orderly retreat became a rout. Down the hill the panic-stricken soldiers went. Officers tried to rally them in vain. They rushed hither, thither, everywhere, seeking only to escape the [illegible]

As the missiles flew the thickest, out from the long lane into the opening between the contending parties a new figure [illegible] hell into which [illegible] uniform, with shining sword dangling at his side, he rode on. He looked around. The camp was in confusion. Smoke from many guns filled the air. The crack of musketry sounded sharp and clear. Through the thicket he could see a strange flag fluttering, and down the hill he watched for a few moments the fleeing forms of the members of company B.

The Cap'n was greatly puzzled; he could not understand it all. He thought it must be a sham battle, a mimic warfare. He had [illegible] lying down for? And why did no one come to meet him? He would call them. He raised his bugle to his lips, and over the crack of muskets and the other to charge. Louder and louder he blew, until his whole strength went into the inspiring summons.

The enemy heard the bugle call and were puzzled. Had reenforcements come? They saw the little [illegible] drew more. Was it a trap to [illegible] at chance [illegible] Company B and the bugle call as the soldiers [illegible]

[illegible] said the [illegible] years [illegible] nobody [illegible] American fleet of all those who saw the small figure for the first time.

They [illegible] called him the Cap'n, [illegible] and walked with such military precision. He wore a bit of flag [illegible] coat one day as he went down to the negro cabin where his ole "mammy" stayed. "Lawd bless us," said she, a broad grin on her face, "[illegible] Cap'n!" The name stuck to him. He carried himself like a king, and even his "nightie," as he walked away into [illegible] always clung to his [illegible] a prince of royal blood.

[illegible] was afraid of nothing. He [illegible] little laugh, into the eyes of a strange and angry foe. He [illegible] like a miniature [illegible] clinched his fist and struck at a visitor who teased him with the good-natured brutality with which some grown-up people treat children.

When the soldiers came to town the Cap'n sat on the gate post and waved his little flag. He looked a part of the post, so still he sat, save for the arm that waved the flag, so solemn he was and white, like a carven image. His face. The men took off their hats to him and threw kisses as they passed. They [illegible] the company [illegible] swagger, and the Cap'n, in charge of his old black mammy, whom he ordered around as though she were a dog and he the object [illegible] proudly, went [illegible] morning to church.

It was not long before the soldiers became his devoted slaves. Perhaps they thought of the dear ones at home, and of a little figure that had waved good-bye as they marched off. From the colonel and reverend colonel down to the second drummer boy the whole regiment was the willing slave of the Cap'n's fancy.

It was a company [illegible] for the Cap'n. One morning [illegible] Company B [illegible] a new [illegible] officer whom [illegible] introduce to the men. He [illegible] the Cap'n [illegible] the [illegible] company in their [illegible] reward.

[illegible] the Cap'n belonged to it, and was the master of Company B. Most of the other companies tried to beg or borrow the Cap'n for company B only laughed at them. They offered to make the Cap'n, but he [illegible] Company B. [illegible] the Cap'n [illegible] but he [illegible] pony, with [illegible] and [illegible] But he could go no further than the officers' tent, and then [illegible] he must go back to company B.

The men of company B heard of it, and they ransacked the country for a pony for the Cap'n. Finally they found one about the size of a large St Bernard, and equally as gentle. They fitted the pony out with bridle and saddle, and made the presentation in [illegible] form to the Cap'n.

Each morning thereafter the Cap'n rode his pony out in front of the men and gravely inspected them. He would blow a little bugle at [illegible] He sat firm and dignified, and touched his hat in military salute, like a trained [illegible] a man in the company but would have rolled in the dust for him—or, what seemed little more serious to them, would have faced death at the cannon's [illegible]

Thus the long summer days came and went. The Cap'n would ride from his home a mile away, to the white city of tents. His old mammy [illegible] on foot, and hung around [illegible] little sister came, a bit of a baby with rosy cheeks and great brown eyes. The [illegible] about him [illegible] him.

[illegible] remembering the [illegible] at ground. Each man had the strength of ten. Somehow, [illegible] way, they noticed each individual project in the rather tiresome [illegible] struck the Cap'n, as she did, it was much according [illegible] No drill command [illegible] with which the [illegible] from the field.

Two hours later the soldiers came slowly back to camp. The Cap'n lay in [illegible] covered him. [illegible] a little bent to the silver bugle. A smile, wan, like a reflection of a ghost, was on his face. His black mammy hung over him, and the old regimental surgeon stood in with anxious look. Suddenly the pathetic little figure stirred. He was speaking.

[illegible] whispered. His blue eyes closed. The Cap'n was asleep.

He did not die. [illegible] life hung on a thread and his voice was almost gone. Through all his illness [illegible] to his thin, parched lips and try to blow a charge, but could not. To [illegible] glad hour the glory of company B's the battle which they fought and won [illegible] morning! Poe in Westminster Church Yard, Baltimore, Md.

For over half a century Uncle Daniel Spence has been the sexton of Westminster church, one of the oldest in Baltimore. Around it is a graveyard which contains a simple shaft of marble with the words "Edgar Allan Poe" [illegible] in the shaft is an excellent likeness of the dead poet.

Many years after Poe's body was placed in this tomb there came a dumb brute who now watches over his resting place. Believers in the immortality of the soul [illegible] that purpose.

About five years ago Uncle Daniel was presented with a dog by the master of a Russian vessel which entered Baltimore harbor. The dog, on account of his ferocity, was avoided by the sailors, and the captain decided to leave [illegible] Yellow was taken to the church. The special object of his solicitude is Poe's grave. Here for hours at a time the dog will remain, and even Uncle Daniel cannot persuade him to leave. HISTORIC MEMORIES.

Set Made from Buttons of Famous Confederate Generals.

Miss Lucy Lee Hill Selected by the Southern Veterans to Wear It at the Next Reunion at Charleston, S. C.

When Miss Lucy Lee Hill attends the grand reunion of the confederate veterans next spring at Charleston, S. C., she will be presented with a unique and historical necklace set. The necklace, etc., are made of buttons taken from the uniforms of Gens. Lee, Jackson, Morgan, Johnston, Hill, Early, Beauregard and others who served in the civil [illegible]

The set consists of a necklace, ornamental comb, bracelets, breastpin, earrings and cuff buttons. It is now owned by Miss Lucy Lee Hill, [illegible] years he was collecting [illegible] Recently he carried them to a jeweler there and had them fashioned into [illegible] ful adornments, whose value now cannot be measured by money. The necklace consists of 21 buttons, washed in [illegible] Attached to the [illegible] set with purple stones and [illegible] of his [illegible] erans of Richmond, Va., at the time of the unveiling of the monument of her father. It was found that Howard had a bad wound in the leg and [illegible] attended and a physician [illegible] Lent kindly [illegible] the injured boy to the hospital.

Quality Determines Price.

[illegible] Review: [illegible] price above the regular [illegible] shipping them alone to better prices. Old roosters, which, as a rule, sell at more [illegible] same boxes with hens with better prices, and to ship poultry alone and have roosters in the coop with fat hens is simply to lower the price of the hens, as the buyer will estimate the value by the presence of the inferior stock. In fact, never send any poultry to market unless in first-class condition, and under no circumstances ship the inferior with that which is better.

JUSTICE WITH RABBIT'S EYE.

Minneapolis Surgeon Restores a Woman's Vision by Most Remarkable Operation.

Great interest is taken in two operations just performed by Dr. C. H. Koller on the blind eyes of a patient at Minneapolis, Minn. Each operation consisted of transplanting a portion of a rabbit's eye into the human organ to restore sight. The patient is a woman about 30 years old, whose home is in North Dakota. She has been blind in one eye for 15 years and in the other for six years. Both eyes were totally blind, and these operations were determined upon as a last resort by Dr. Koller.

About a week after the operation on the first eye an examination was made of the eye. It presented a natural appearance, and it was found that a connection had been established between the original and the grafted portion [illegible] operation. An [illegible] that a larger portion of this organ had to be removed than from the other eye, as the disease was deeper. Every particle of the diseased organ was removed and a similar portion taken from the healthy eye of the animal. Some days must necessarily pass before it is known whether sight has been restored in this instance, but no a person who saw the operation doubts for a moment that success will meet the skillful efforts and that [illegible]

ASK YOUR DOCTOR.

Ask your physician this question. "What is the one great remedy for consumption?" He will answer, "Cod-liver oil." Nine out of ten will answer the same way.

Yet when persons have consumption they loathe all fatty foods, yet fat is necessary for their recovery and they cannot take plain cod-liver oil. The plain oil disturbs the stomach and takes away the appetite. It lacks agreeable fishy odor and taste make it almost unendurable. [illegible]

This question was answered when we first made

POLITICAL ANNOUNCEMENTS:

The following named persons are announced as candidates for the office specified below, subject to the decision of the Democratic County Convention:

FOR COUNTY COMMISSIONER.

ROYAL T. THOMAS, Union.
N. B. WHITE, Wellsboro.
JOHN C. KELLEY, Charleston.
EDWARD A. BRYDEN, Wellsboro.
LOUIS DOUMAUX, Wellsboro.

ONE by one the Hastings appointees at Harrisburg are made to walk the plank. Stone's watchword is to turn the rascals out, but there are grave suspicions of the honesty of some who are turned in.

next year the silver men will control the Senate by one vote—that of the Vice President.

EX-GOVERNOR HASTINGS has received an opinion from Judge Advocate General Lieber, U. S. A., in which he decides, that soldiers of the war with Spain may be buried in the National cemetery at Gettysburg. Several soldiers from southern and western states, who died in Meade were buried in the Gettysburg cemetery.

THE House of Representatives of Pennsylvania has just adopted a resolution declaring that United States Senators should be elected by the people. The adopted by the overwhelming vote of 97 to 4. In other States resolutions of a similar character have been adopted at their sessions this winter.

[illegible] as much as years since we had anything to equal the severe weather that has prevailed all over the country for the past week, and to cap the climax came the blizzard, practically tying up [illegible] running of many other important industries. The storm was widespread and Pennsylvania was not the only State in the blizzard's grasp.

Now that the Lazan matter has been settled by the granting of a six-year holiday, at $5,000 a year, to an officer

Scribe has misgivings in the [illegible] grass," an interested public will watch the further development of the campaign against General Miles, who appears to be held guilty of the more easily innocuous offense of endeavoring to protect the soldiers of the army from bad canned and embalmed beef.

E. A. VAN VALKENBURG, the anti Quay editor, has entered suit for libel against C. W. Beaman, editor and publisher of the Times, and Joseph A. and [illegible] Somers, publishers of the Legal, both of Lebanon, for printing on Feb. 4th last the following: [illegible] Martin's false friend springs a trap. [illegible] with respect to the Senatorial situation "I believe that the Democrats will stick by the caucus nominee to the last. If I had thought that any Democrat was too honest to be dictated to, to stay to the finish, I would not have allowed my name to be used as a candidate. I do not think there is a traitor in the Democratic ranks. The impression among Quay people that Mr. Quay will make inroads into the Democratic line and win by Democratic votes is a mistake. I am not ready to say whether or not a Democratic Senator will be elected at this session of the Legislature. That is a matter purely in the hands of the Democratic caucus."

[illegible] Philippines [illegible] heavy than it did [illegible] the Spanish forces [illegible] first of May battles [illegible] the signing of the protocol and the attack on the Filipinos at Manila on the 14th of February, the American loss in the campaign was but 300 killed and 1,000 wounded, and in the Porto Rico campaign 17 killed and 40 wounded.

PENNSYLVANIA is one of the States where the people are required to obey enactments of the Legislature without having any adequate opportunity of finding out what they are. The only official publication of the State laws after they are enacted, is in books which do not make their appearance until months after the close of the legislative session, and then have but a limited circulation in the hands of judges, justices of the peace and attorneys. Among the measures to [illegible] is one proposing that all laws enacted shall be advertised in the newspapers of the State. This bill deserves adoption. Plain readers should serve to convince that the people should be informed [illegible] familiarize themselves with the statutes and various provisions. The State Editorial Association will urge the passage of the measure directing that all laws shall be [illegible] New Hampshire, Vermont, Rhode Island, New York, Minnesota and some other. [illegible] QUESTION OF ADDITIONAL REVENUE [illegible]

[illegible] NEW TAXATION.

A Proposal For a State Tax on Beer, Even If Constitutional, May Be Vetoed by the Governor If Passed—A Philadelphians Plan For New Judges

(Special Correspondence.)

HARRISBURG, Feb. 14.—The principal legislative [illegible] was the action of the house in postponing the Durham bill until Feb. 21. The vote on the postponement was 93 to 92. Seventeen Democrats voted against the postponement, and five City Republicans voted with the majority of [illegible] Mr. Durham, who lies in his grave in Cumberland county, and Clinton Rogers Woolley of Philadelphia, who was absent without leave [illegible] The unpopularity of the measure to which the extent to which the deadlock is likely to result soon in a rush and crush to save favorite bills from defeat threatened by the early final adjournment on April 20. The danger to all such bills except appropriations will be largely increased when altered house rules shall give the right of way to the appropriation bills. These circumstances probably will evoke from some faction a proposition to fix a later date for final adjournment.

The change cannot be made, however, without a two-thirds vote of each house. It is simply too early to foresee [illegible] Democratic members might wish a plague of both Republican houses, and seeing nothing for themselves but pulling Republican chestnuts out of the fire, might stand as a unit against changing the date unless it should be [illegible]

When the necessary work shall be done the Democrats may see a party advantage in refusing [illegible] of either house [illegible] to push senatorial outcome or prospect shall not modify present feelings between the Republican factions, the anti-Quay Republicans will be no less eager than the Democrats to kill pet projects of their enemies. The Democrats will aim to put all the blame upon the Republican side for any neglect of the state's [illegible] legislature.

Worried Over Treasury Deficiency.

With the senatorial question unsettled no legislative leader predicts the particular element from which a proposed taxing of a date later than April [illegible] have. All seem to feel that trouble is brewing over these questions, however. If for no other reason than that there is no money in the treasury [illegible] Stone and others for increasing the state's revenue.

Continued Republican factional fighting in Philadelphia is regarded as a certain consequence of whatever will be the result of the senatorial struggle. Senator Martin's close friendship, however, that he has had enough of the city feuds and proposes to content him-

A Plan to Increase Expenses.

Notwithstanding the gloomy revenue prospect, protests from newspapers and citizens against the bills for new courts of limited jurisdiction throughout the state and for three additional common pleas judges in Philadelphia have not halted the proposed raid upon the treasury through multiplication of public offices. Representative Adams, of Philadelphia, introduced a bill providing that judges shall be elected for that [illegible] of oyer and terminer, general jail delivery and quarter sessions. Their salaries are to be $5,000 a year each, and in addition to trying indictments they shall adjudicate matters relating to breaches of the peace, punish for contempt, issue writs of habeas corpus and have equal authority with the common pleas judges to make orders and decrees, and render judgments in criminal jurisdiction. The governor is to appoint the two judges to serve until next January 1.

[illegible] Democratic members might wish a plague of both Republican houses, and seeing nothing for themselves but pulling Republican chestnuts out of the fire, might stand as a unit against changing the date unless it should be [illegible]

LOCAL BRIEFS.

—The cold wave knocked out the grip.

—Only five prisoners in the county jail.

—The plumbets had a busy time of it last week.

—Sub-zero temperatures have prevailed of late.

—The cold snap has not proved rare staying qualities.

—Fred J. Lloyd, of Delmar, is acting as Deputy Sheriff just at present.

—The milkmen well earned their money during the cold snap the past week.

—Mrs. William Mathers and son, John, of New York city, are visiting relatives in town.

—Miss Ethel Bailey, of Williamsport, is the guest of her cousin, Miss Ethel Bailey, for a couple of weeks.

—Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bailey, of Williamsport, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Bailey, this week.

—Mr. Frank Bailey, of Williamsport, is the guest of his cousin, Mr. Ed. Bailey, for a few days this week.

—Mr. Henry Holzheimer, of Amsterdam, N. Y., is visiting at Mr. Jacob Hart's.

—Job Hart, of this place, has been appointed watchman in Capitol Park at Harrisburg, with a salary of $900 a year.

—Fred S. Webb, express messenger on the Fall Brook railway, is very ill with pneumonia at his home on East avenue.

—Fred D. Wetmore, formerly of this borough, has purchased the interest of Wm. Bache, Jr., in the flour and feed store at Galeton.

—W. H. Kehler, Esq., of Liberty township, of this borough, will locate at Hazlehurst, McKean county, where he will open a law office.

—Messrs. W. D. VanHorn and E. W. Gleckler, of the First National Bank, have been snow-bound in Philadelphia since last Sunday.

—One day last week Mrs. A. J. Vanderson, of Westfield, a former resident of this borough, slipped on the icy sidewalk and fell, breaking both bones in her right arm just above the wrist.

—Col. N. A. Elliott, of Mansfield, was in town Monday and made us a call. The Colonel looks as vigorous and his physical condition generally is remarkably good for one of his years.

—William Conklin, who has been employed as salesman at Quackenbush & Co's., for the past two years, has resigned his position and will remove to Bath, N. Y., where he will engage in the dry goods business.

—According to the Dispatch, the spurring match which was to come off in this borough will take place at Galeton the latter part of this month. The principal bout will be between Dick Jackson, colored, of this borough, and Pat Purcel, of Arnot.

—Orange Cook Post will hold its annual bean-bake and campfire next Wednesday evening. The old boys will depart a little this year from their usual custom and will ask contributions of suitable supplies for the occasion from the Legislature and their ladies at the executive mansion in Harrisburg on Monday evening. A dispatch says that it will be the most unique of all the functions ever given at the mansion, although the attendance was not as large as expected on account of the storm. Mrs. Stone wore a gown of white satin trimmed with spangled silver and pointed lace. Mrs. Hickling, of Washington, daughter of Governor and Mrs. Stone, wore a blue satin gown.

—The real estate and personal property of the late C. B. Whitehead, of Bradford, formerly of this borough, is generally estimated to be worth from $200,000 to $300,000. The Bradford Record says: "A few cash legacies are left to relatives and to the housekeeper. Provisions are made for the education of the children, and for the payment of a stipulated amount of money upon their become of age. It is said, however, that the estate is not to be divided between the children until the latter arrive at 30-years of age. The will was executed two or three days before Mr. Whitehead's death."

Change at the Postoffice.

Frederick K. Wright, who for the past four years has been Postmaster in this borough, retired last Saturday and surrendered the office to his successor, Arthur M. Roy. It is but justice to Mr. Wright and his assistants, William H. Sullivan, Joseph Gartland and Miss Jennie King, to state that during their term of office many improvements were made in the manner of conducting the affairs of the office for the convenience of the patrons in transacting business. While the general direction and supervision of the office has been looked after by Mr. Wright, yet all the details have been in charge of Deputy Postmaster Sullivan. Mr. Sullivan and his assistants have been careful, diligent and courteous, and are worthy of the highest commendation. We are pleased to announce that both Mr. Sullivan and Miss King will be retained by Postmaster Roy, for a time at least. The office will remain in its present location.

The salary of the Postmaster in this borough is $1,000. In addition he is allowed $30 per month, $300 for clerk hire, $50 for light—fuel and his percentage on money orders brings the grand total up to $2,000 a year.

Lenten Services at St. Paul's.

Rev. William Heakes, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, has prepared an attractive program of services for the Lenten season, beginning yesterday. The services will be as follows: Holy Communion and sermon, 10 a. m.; evening prayer and sermon, 7 p. m., and week days at 4:15 p. m. A course of sermons will be given by visiting clergymen as follows—the first of the course being delivered last evening by Rev. W. C. Roberts, of Corning:

February 22d, by the Rev. E. H. Eckel, of Williamsport.

March 2d, by the Rev. L. B. Thomas, D. D., of Elmira.

March 9th, by the Rev. George H. McKnight, D. D., of Elmira.

March 16th, by the Rev. Thos. H. Foley, of Williamsport.

March 22d, by the Rev. S. W. Derby, of Tioga.

These services will begin at 7:30 p. m. Service in the afternoon on the above dates will be omitted.

On Easter Sunday there will be sunrise service in the old church at 5:45 and morning service in the new church at 10:30.

The Will of the Late Judge Williams.

The will of the late Justice Henry W. Williams was proved and filed last Saturday. No inventory of the property has yet been filed. The executors and trustees of the estate are members of the family. After the estate is settled the executors will be paid for their services. The trust is a very liberal one. In the event of the death of any of the children of the testator before the expiration of the trust, the share of such child will go to the Protestant Episcopal Church of Wellsboro, the income to be used for the benefit of the church. In the event of the death of any of the children of the testator if his children should die without issue the estate will go to the Episcopal Church.

Henry Holzheimer, of Amsterdam, N. Y., is visiting at Mr. Jacob Hart's.

THE COLD SNAP.

Coldest Weather Experienced in Many Years—Thirty-five Below Zero.

Last Friday was decidedly the coldest day experienced in this section of the country in many years. The mercury registered from 4 to 6 degrees below zero and it was set down by the old inhabitants as "an old-fashioned winter day." It is believed that the mercury has not reached such a low point during the days of twenty-five years and probably longer. Many young men who were away from red-hot stoves and radiators, and those who were seen on the streets had their hands to their ears and noses and everybody had about them a decidedly Klondike air.

Friday night and Saturday morning were in reality record breakers. The mercury began to descend in the evening after dark and it continued to go down lower and lower until at midnight the thermometer seemed to grow worse. All kinds of stories about the severity of the weather were told. Some were exaggerating, and from the best information it can be safely declared that the mercury ranged all the way from 30 to 35 degrees below zero at different points in the borough, as shown by the thermometer, many of which are kept in exposed places, while others are sheltered to a considerable extent. The cold was simply awful.

Reports from different parts of the county show that it was as low as 35 and 40 degrees in some sections. There may have been colder weather in years gone by, but what we have had the past week will do very well for these degenerate times, and we can point with shivering pride to the record made by the thermometer.

Saturday morning the cold wave moderated and snow began to fall.

From all parts of the United States and from extreme northern points of the continent reports of almost unprecedented cold weather were received, showing the extraordinary extent and severe nature of the winter's storm. At many points the temperature fell to an astonishing degree. For instance, at Washington, D. C., the temperature was 8 below and at Philadelphia 7 below. These figures give some idea of the situation. The cold wave is said to have had its birth in the far Northwest, and included the whole country in its sweep.

The snow-storm of Saturday and Sunday was followed up by a terrific blizzard, which struck this locality on Monday morning. The Corning Journal of Tuesday morning says: "The blinding snow made it the most bitter, blustery day of the winter. The thermometer still hovered about the zero mark, and, with the fierce wind, the cold was very penetrating. All the country roads in this section were badly drifted and it will take some of the farmers several days to shovel their way out."

THE CURFEW LAW.

How It Operates and Is Received Elsewhere—Decreases Juvenile Crime.

While considering the question of enacting a curfew law for Wellsboro, it will be interesting to know how such a law operates and is received elsewhere. Vineland, N. J., is having no end of amusement over it. It is said the curfewites could find no bell in the town to ring when the law went into effect on a recent evening, so they got a steam whistle and organized a grotesque parade of anti-curfewites. The parade caricatured the aldermen who passed the curfew ordinances and burlesqued the entire proceeding. The whole town is laughing, and the indications are that no attempt will be made to enforce the curfew law, for the reason that the greater portion of the inhabitants seem to be opposed to that sort of legislation.

More than three hundred towns and cities in the United States now have the curfew law. It has been asked by some citizens whether this law is so desirable, and if it really helps towards the elevation of youth. In a recent letter Charles R. Skinner, Superintendent of the New York State Department of Public Instruction, says: "The curfew is approved by those who consider it an infringement of personal liberty, but it may be asked whether society and the State should not have power to protect themselves against vicious tendencies in street education. Statistics tell us that last year there were 170,000 arrests of children under sixteen years of age. There should be a remedy for reducing juvenile crime. The result of careful enforcement of the curfew law has largely decreased the arrests of children for crime, and teachers report that boys who were formerly behind in their studies, by reason of late hours on the streets, are more punctual and regular and keep up with school work."

The curfew law has proved a dead letter in Altoona. Since April, 1897, a city ordinance has prohibited all persons under 16 years of age from being on the streets after the hour of 8:30 p. m., from September 1st to April 1st, and after 9:30 p. m. during the balance of the year. No attempt has been made to enforce the ordinance.

Inasmuch as the Democrats of the First ward in this borough have nominated a well-known and highly esteemed lady for the office of School Director, the following from the Coudersport Journal will be read with special interest:

"It would be a good thing if all towns to nominate women for School Directors could with value to the schools be emulated by many districts which have not yet arrived at that advanced condition. Of course, the services of women to succeed in the professions and in some business pursuits is no longer questioned and they are welcomed as participants in these sterner walks by the liberal-minded men who will admit the importance of intellect, their safe judgment, tact and their industry. As directors of public schools they would be in a much more congenial sphere and one in which they would accomplish even better results.

"Mrs. Ellen Sherwood, who is a candidate for School Director in the First ward, is a woman of good education and refinement, and if she should be elected she would prove as valuable an acquisition to the board and as much of a benefit to the schools. To little importance is usually attached to visits to schools by directors, but Mrs. Sherwood would make an effort when their work is submitted to the test of inspection, and by no means would they be more thorough than by a woman, who are so interested in the cause of education.

"The election of an intelligent woman to its Board of Directors, and it cannot be that the town is far d[illegible] without one, [illegible] a woman who is competent and willing to do the work, and who would be a valuable member of the board, should be a matter of congratulation for the girls. If you have a daughter, what better can you do than to place her in the care of such a woman, without regard to her political or religious faith?"

FIFTY-SIXTH ANNIVERSARY.

How It Was Observed by the Presbyterian Church of Wellsboro.

(From the Republican Advocate.)

The fifty-sixth anniversary of the founding of the Presbyterian Church of Wellsboro was celebrated in a fitting manner last Sunday evening. Despite the inclement weather the church was filled, and those present were repaid for their fidelity by the quality of the commemorative exercises. The program consisted of the following:

Organ Voluntary ..... Mrs. Osgood
Sacred Potpourri—"Joy to the World" ..... Band
Invocation ..... Rev. O. C. Hills
Hymn No. 592—"Glorious things of Thee are spoken." ..... Congregation
Anthem ..... Choir
Sacred Fantasia—"In the Cathedral" ..... Band
"Reminiscences" ..... Rev. N. L. Reynolds
Hymn No. 697—"Zion stands by hills surrounded" ..... Congregation
"A Methodist Hand-Shake" Rev. E. C. Dodge
"The Holy City" ..... Band
Christian Fellowship..... Rev. William Heakes
Congregational Prayer ..... Band
Benediction ..... The Pastor

Rev. N. L. Reynolds, Rev. E. C. Dodge and Rev. William Heakes were present and were thoroughly enjoyed.

The Church has been signally blessed in securing pledges which fully provide for the current expenses.

The Presbyterian Church of Wellsboro was organized Feb. 11, 1843. Rev. Thomas Foster supplied the pulpit the first year. There was no church edifice at that time and meetings were held in the court house.

After Mr. Foster's retirement in 1844 a call was extended to Rev. J. F. Calhoun, who accepted and he was installed as pastor Sept. 1844, having charge of the Church in Wellsboro and what now is Ansonia.

For nine years services were held in the court house, during which time the membership increased from 12 to 60. At the end of this period the congregation was small, sufficient means could not be secured for years to build a church. The pastor labored zealously to raise funds. A lot was purchased at the corner of Main and Norris streets. Lumber and other material were collected but were destroyed by fire and for a time all work was suspended. Wm. E. Dodge, of New York, learning of the disaster telegraphed the officials of the church, "Buy 10,000 feet of lumber and send me the bill." The building was completed and dedicated in 1854 and cost $4600.

The Church grew in strength and in 1872 the edifice was enlarged and improved at a cost of $8,000. In 1892 the church became self-supporting, and has been so ever since. The church is continuous in its existence for five years. The Church celebrated its fifty-second anniversary Feb. 11, 1893. Mr. Calkins was present and participated in the services. He died Nov. 7, 1893, aged seventy-eight years.

In 1850, Rev. A. C. Shaw, D. D., was call to the pastorate. The last services were held in the old church April 15, 1894. On Friday, June 8, of the same year, the corner stone of the present edifice was laid. The church was dedicated Feb. 12, 1895, and the services were very impressive. The building is one of the handsomest in Northern Pennsylvania, including its stained windows and furniture, cost $30,155.45.

At the present time the membership exceeds 400, the Sunday School has a membership of 300 and the library contains more than 1000 volumes.

COUNTY AFFAIRS.

A Summary of Local Events and Happenings of the Week.

"NEVER DID SEE."

Dedicated to the fellow who never saw such cold weather.

Never did see sich weather sence the time I was knee high,
An' we had that powerful frost in June, an the big snow in July.
Rainin' steady for forty days, an' hailin' from East to West,
But still, it ain't none o' my funeral, I reckon the Lord knows best!

Never did see sich weather sence I trapped it round Clear Creek,
With Stonewall Jackson, one August day, when the mules all fro ze to death!
Rainin', hailin' an' blowin', an' the flows all rustlin' with rest,
But I won't say nothin' agin it, for I reckon the Lord knows best!

Never did see sich weather sence the time the stars fell down,
An' that weasel-weather set in on Christmas, an' put the fires in town!
Rain, an' hail, an' thunder—a-wlin' from East to West,
But I won't say nothin' agin it, for I reckon the Lord knows best!

—Inasmuch as the Democrats of the First ward in this borough have nominated a well-known and highly esteemed lady for the office of School Director, the following from the Coudersport Journal will be read with special interest:

"It would be a good thing if all towns to nominate women for School Directors could with value to the schools be emulated by many districts which have not yet arrived at that advanced condition. Of course, the services of women to succeed in the professions and in some business pursuits is no longer questioned and they are welcomed as participants in these sterner walks by the liberal-minded men who will admit the importance of intellect, their safe judgment, tact and their industry. As directors of public schools they would be in a much more congenial sphere and one in which they would accomplish even better results.

"Mrs. Ellen Sherwood, who is a candidate for School Director in the First ward, is a woman of good education and refinement, and if she should be elected she would prove as valuable an acquisition to the board and as much of a benefit to the schools. To little importance is usually attached to visits to schools by directors, but Mrs. Sherwood would make an effort when their work is submitted to the test of inspection, and by no means would they be more thorough than by a woman, who are so interested in the cause of education.

"The election of an intelligent woman to its Board of Directors, and it cannot be that the town is far d[illegible] without one, [illegible] a woman who is competent and willing to do the work, and who would be a valuable member of the board, should be a matter of congratulation for the girls. If you have a daughter, what better can you do than to place her in the care of such a woman, without regard to her political or religious faith?"

—"A Colonial Free Lance" is in the GAZETTE soon. Don't miss the opening chapters. It is an historical story, full of thrilling incidents and exciting situations. Be sure and read it.

—Mr. Frank Millspaugh, of Millerton, who has been troubled for some time by [illegible] lest he shall become totally blind, went to Buffalo last week to submit to a surgical operation for the removal of cataracts.

—A few days ago while James B. Kilcarlin, about two miles from Westfield, a tree fell on his foot and bruised it badly. Although the injuries are quite serious it is thought the foot can be saved.

—Last Saturday morning fire broke out in the cellar of the residence of C. B. Sherwood, of Mansfield. The flames were extinguished before much damage was done, the firemen not being obliged to turn on the water. Mr. Sherwood is in Alaska with the Emma Pomeroy Company.

—Jolly James, the County Commissioner, has filed his bill of the Eastern Penitentiary for the care of the four convicts committed from this county during 1898. The bill amounted to $483, from which was deducted $55.10, this amount having been earned by Austedmo Regina, one of the convicts.

—Both applications for license in Millerton having been denied, the Advocate says that the town will "go dry" for the coming year, although experience in the past has proven that in localities where there is no license the sale of liquor does not lack for wet goods, which are sold at a profit of from 100 to 300 per cent. on the cost of the price.

—Thomas Sullivan, landlord of the Sullivan House at Elkland, requests us to deny the report which has been published to the effect that he will close his hotel because he was refused license. The house will be kept open the same as usual for the accommodation of the traveling public.

—Miss May Gleason, of Tioga, who was injured in the Fall Brook wreck at Tiadaghton a month ago and who is still at the home of her sister, Mrs. Delaney, of Slate Run, is improving slowly. She is able to sit up a little now, but still experiences a great deal of pain in her back and in her right ear.

—The "calf story," recently published in the GAZETTE from Little Marsh to the effect that "George Reynolds has a 10-months-old Holstein calf that weighs 690 pounds," Mr. Taft has beaten all to the corner in Mansfield by a calf that weighs 700 pounds.

—In addition to having his house heated and lighted by gas O. A. Smith, of Marshfield, has a large jet in front of his residence, which illuminates his lawn in the most effective manner. The gas is furnished from his own well, and he anticipates extending the line to the neighboring houses in the spring, should the pressure hold out.

—The Bradford Star says: "The Maxwell Oil Company's No. 3 well at Gaines, which its owners had shut down, and which we had supposed was a dry hole, is pumping, it is said, and is good for a small producer. The farmers hold tightly to their leases and will not sell for love or money."

—There seems to be money in raising bees. A farmer knows how to handle it. A Bradford county man has 100 swarms of bees. From his swarms he sold about 4,000 pounds of honey last year. From his best swarm he secured 201 pounds, and from the best ten 1,101 pounds. The average price from the entire lot was 9 cents a pound."

—Dr. L. N. Close, of Keeneyville, who was a member of the Knights of the Maccabees. His dues and assessments have ceased under the rules of the order, but he is entitled to draw one tenth of the insurance annually. On January 10th his claim was filed and on February 6th he received $100 as the first payment.

—William Nicholson, for many years auditor of the Fall Brook Railway Company, is soon to leave Corning and locate at Buffalo, where he is to have charge of a railroad clearing house of the Vanderbilt system of railroads, composed of the New York Central, West Shore, Lake Shore and Michigan Southern, the Nickel Plate, the Big Four and other railroads.

—A new barn belonging to Contractor E. N. Bentley, of Mansfield, was burned last Saturday night. Most of the contents were saved. Mr. Bentley was in this borough at the time of the fire. The barn and contents were insured for $1,600. The barn was valued at $2,000 and the loss of tools is placed at $2,000. The origin of the fire is unknown.

—The amount of logs rafted out of the Williamsport boom in 1898 was 130,000,000 feet against 110,000,000 feet in 1897, a gain of 20,000,000 for the year. The Williamsport Sun says: "This does not include the logs which the Dodge mills brought down in cars and which will reach 50,000,000 more, making the amount sawed here last year about 180,000,000 against 110,000,000 in 1897. It is thought that this years output will be as great as last year."

—Five small wooden buildings occupied by stores and living rooms, in Coudersport, were destroyed by fire last Friday night. The loss is $10,000, divided between stocks, fixtures and buildings. The cold weather severely hampered the work of the firemen. The flames originated in the barber shop of A. Gillon and spread to the flour and sugar warehouse of Mrs. Ardell, Metzger's bakery and H. Schildberger's cigar factory.

—Dr. F. F. Castlebury, of Roaring Branch, was the victim of a runaway accident last Sunday, resulting in his left leg being broken above the ankle. The team belonged to the Roaring Branch to make a professional call when the horse took fright at a bad place in the road and became unmanageable. The doctor was thrown from the vehicle and was precipitated down a fifteen foot embankment. The doctor succeeded in getting up to the road and was obliged to crawl three-quarters of a mile on his hands and knees before he received assistance. He suffered excruciatingly from the pain, and the temperature was below zero.

Wreck on the Fall Brook.

The blizzard on Monday seriously interfered with railroad traffic in all parts of the country and many of the trunk lines were obliged to abandon train service. The snow drifts on the Fine Creek division, and to add to its troubles the road was reported at noon Monday as being blocked with snow, prevented the running of any trains. The first section of No. 1 had a rear end collision between Corning and Gaines, while switching a car when the train was coupled to the first section. The outcome and details are not known at this writing. The wreck block kept the road and delayed all trains until late in the day.

Refusing Granted in the Case of George C. Signor—Divorce Matters.

On Tuesday the rule for a rehearing of the license application of George C. Signor, of Arnot, was discharged. The Court reconsidered and on account of new evidence the Court revoked the former order and granted the license.

Two witnesses who failed to appear at the former hearing were produced by the Sheriff. The Court fined them $3 each.

The petition of Richard E. Sandbach, of Elkland, was also presented, asking for a license to sell liquor. Among the witnesses called to prove the character of the witnesses who at the former hearing swore that he obtained beer at his house, was now prepared to say that it was birch beer, and that he never obtained any lager beer there.

The Court, thinking that the witness was well acquainted with the facts as stated to by him before, refused the application.

The hearing of the license application of F. C. Roe, of Little Marsh, has been continued indefinitely, or until such time as another judge can be secured to consider the case.

The following divorce cases were acted upon last week:

Decree of divorce granted in case of Anna M. Briggs vs. Benjamin C. Briggs.

Rose Taylor vs. Lester W. Taylor: Sheriff ordered to make proclamation.

Dora Hazlett vs. George Hazlett: leave granted to proceed ex parte. H. P. Rea appointed commissioner and the first witness examined.

The same order was made in case of C. A. Larrabee vs. Eugene E. Larrabee.

FIRE AT LITTLE MARSH.

Residence of Dr. B. L. Roe Burned With Its Contents—Other Notes.

LITTLE MARSH, Feb. 14.—On Saturday morning, the coldest of the season—the thermometer registering 35 degrees below zero—our little town was again alarmed by the cry of fire. It proved to be the dwelling house belonging to Bennet Reynolds and occupied by Dr. Byron L. Roe. When the fire was first discovered by the doctor the flames had gained such headway that there was no chance to save any of the household goods. The fire caught in the doctor's office and a large stock of drugs and medicines, medical books and furniture, with all the furniture, with the exception of a few pieces, were burned. All the clothing of Mr. and Mrs. Roe, except what they had on their persons, were also burned. The doctor had an insurance of $2,000. It is a great misfortune to Dr. Roe, as he had just got nicely located and had a large practice. The household goods were nearly all new and the doctor owned his medical library very highly.

Dr. Trexler, of Knoxville, is attending to Dr. Roe's patients since the fire.

Mrs. Julia Ordway, who has been very sick for the past two weeks, is somewhat improved.

Last week Tuesday a house at Chatham Valley, was destroyed by fire. It was occupied by Charles Graves. The household goods were saved. This is a severe loss to Mr. Graves, as he is getting along in years and has no one to help him. There was no insurance on the house or its contents.

Mrs. George Ordway, of Elkland, has been spending the past week in this place.

Uncle George Washington has been under the doctor's care for the past six weeks. What is the trouble with the brother Church members and brother G. A. Romen that they do not assist in caring for their old friend and [illegible]

Our local teachers' institute, which was held here on Friday evening and Saturday, was the best meeting ever held in this place. On account of the severe cold weather there was only a small attendance, but what the institute lacked in numbers was made up in good [illegible]. Owing to the bad roads and cold weather Superintendent Longstreet did not arrive here until Saturday afternoon. Most of the singing was furnished by the Keeneyville choir.

The thermometer registered 36 degrees below zero on Saturday morning at 6 o'clock. It was the coldest ever known in this section.

The ladies of the Dime Union expect to serve dinner on election day, next Tuesday.

Horse Killed by the Cars.

COVINGTON, Feb. 14.—Last Friday evening a team belonging to Wilbur Rockwell became frightened by the cars at Canoe Camp and ran away. Mr. Rockwell followed on foot to this place and [illegible] started for his mother's home, one mile west of Elk Run bridge, whither he supposed they had gone. Instead the horses had followed the road to the first crossing below here and then taken to the railroad, which they followed to the first culvert where they stopped there until about midnight, when they were struck by a Fall Brook coal train, which demolished the sleigh, wrecked the sleigh. Mr. Rockwell has the sympathy of all in his misfortune.

We have plenty of good sleighing and less sickness as a result of cold weather.

Last Saturday morning was the coldest experience as low as 36 degrees below zero.

Antrim Affairs.

ANTRIM, Feb 14.—A son arrived at the home of William Coumbe's last Friday.

Last Friday and Saturday was the coldest ever known in Antrim. The mercury registered all the way from 30 to 36 degrees below zero.

A young gentleman of this place desires to correspond with some young lady who is matrimonially inclined. Address, P. O. Box 173, Antrim, Pa.

Thomas Kane, of this place, is said to have been one of the principal attractions at the dance held in Wellsboro on Washington's birthday.

The team of horses belonging to Hosea Smith, which conveyed a party of young men of this place to the dance at Wellsboro on Friday evening, returned home Saturday morning in a completely exhausted condition. The party met with a smash-up on Shumway hill and were obliged to walk about four miles in the intense cold.

[illegible] DIVORCE COURTS.

[illegible] Will Be Made in McKean County to Stop Them.

New York married people looking for [illegible] are advised not to go to McKean [illegible] these applications. He does not approve of the custom of people from other States coming to Pennsylvania [illegible] in order to secure a residence merely for the object of securing a divorce. The people will approve of Judge Morrison's disapproval. The Port Allegany Reporter in commenting on the Judge's opinion, says:

Judge Morrison did not enunciate a new principle of law, nor did he give a new interpretation of the law. His decision was tantamount to a declaration that henceforth the courts of this county will scan divorce proceedings more closely with a view of putting a stop to collusive action on the part of persons not legitimately within the jurisdiction of the court. It seems that couples living in New York State, where the statutory ground for divorce is adultery, arrange for a Pennsylvania residence, [illegible] filed in McKean county, and [illegible] the decree to collusive and virtual adultery. The decree says that the defendant has been guilty of adultery with the co-defendant within the jurisdiction of this court, at the time and place specified in the petition, and that the defendant has committed the same since the filing of the petition, and that if the defendant shall deny the charge of adultery at the time of the hearing of the petition, the plaintiff will produce the co-defendant to prove the charge. It is not to be supposed that the courts will grant divorces in such cases without ulterior or collusive motives, if it be true that such decrees are obtained by the simple process of filing a petition and producing the co-defendant to prove the charge. It is not improbable that sometimes a fraud is perpetrated on the Court not only by and between the parties to the suit but by the aid of shyster attorneys. It is reported that in some instances service has been made. That a subpoena is given to the officer with instructions to go to a certain point and there serve the defendant. The officer makes the service on the man he finds there, the defendant, but who is a stranger to the defendant for the purpose of defrauding the Court. The defendant is innocent, but there is collusion between the parties or among the parties and the attorney.

Death of a Farmington Citizen.

[illegible] Farmington's best known citizens, died at the home of his daughter in this place last Saturday morning. He had been confined for several years with dropsy. Since the death of his wife about ten years ago he had lived with his daughters, Mrs. Frank Creek, and Mrs. Burk, of this place.

The funeral was held yesterday. Owing to the terrible blizzard only a few men from this immediate vicinity were able to attend. It was utterly impossible for the hearse to get through the snow banks and the remains were taken from the vehicle and carried to the cemetery. When the men returned from the cemetery they were nearly exhausted. The [illegible] of Mrs. Oren Russell, but on account of the drifted condition of the roads it has been impossible to get through with the body to the cemetery. The inhabitants say that they never before experienced such a blizzard.

Two little strangers made their appearance in this neighborhood last week. A little son at the home of A. F. Davenport and a daughter at Wm. Hosmer's.

We regret to state that Mrs. Warren Phelps is on the sick list.

The infant daughter of Clarence Ribe is very ill with pneumonia.

Feeding the Fire.

The most powerful engine must stop if the fires are not fed. Man is the most wonderful piece of machinery in the world, yet no matter how strong and well-made his bodily frame may be, if the fire of life within him is not constantly fed his limbs and muscles become powerless and useless.

The reason men become [illegible] and depraved is because they do not eat, digest and assimilate the proper nourishing and nutritive organs [illegible] into the strength and [illegible] the engine.

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 16, 1899.

My Dearest Foe.

JANUARY 15th [illegible]

"Yes, I see he isn't visible to the naked eye," remarked the doctor, with a sly twinkle in his own. "I didn't ask [illegible]

"Yes, you do, for I know where he will be to-night."

"I do not."

"It is a great relief to be able to answer that truly and without hesitation.

"You are ready to go to bed now?"

"Yes, [illegible]

"Well, then, [illegible] about your chum. [illegible] and this card"—writing as he spoke—"to Mrs. Torsey. She will show you to the bed where you are to sleep."

"Say, chum, wake up!" in a loud [illegible]

"Wake up, old man! We had piles of fun. [illegible]

"Say, are you awake? 'Confound it! If you won't go along, the least you can do is to be sociable when a fellow gets [illegible] so sociable."

Which remark was accompanied by [illegible] monstrance that he should "let a fellow alone."

But Slip Shaw had had too jolly a night to heed any such stupid requests as that, and so persistent were his efforts [illegible] much thumping and punching, and the use of emphatic words not desirable to reproduce, showed some slight consciousness of what was being said.

"Tell you, chum, you made a great mistake in not going along. Fun? Well [illegible] wished I'd taken your advice. Do you hear? Just one scream. After I got away all right, I wouldn't have given that for all the Dr. Brosses in the country. Don't growl so—didn't mean to wake crowd was there—the club, you know—the B. O. T. C.?"

FREED FROM PRISON.

What Mother Love Did in the Great [illegible]

[illegible] Condemned [illegible] Imprisonment [illegible] Secured [illegible]

Mother love has just stayed the ten years' sentence to Sing Sing of John Wallace, of New York. A mother's devotion restored him to freedom after one day's incarceration at Sing Sing.

A judicial blunder was about to be made. In December, 1897, Wallace, who lived at No. 111 Clinton place, was arrested and accused of beating one William Johnson, a negro, in the assault and robbery of a saloon in Clinton place. The negro [illegible] have aided him [illegible] and sentenced him to ten years' imprisonment in Sing Sing.

From the first and to the last Wallace protested his innocence. No [illegible] believed him but his faithful mother.

To her he was the little child again that toddled by her side; whose little hands she folded in prayer at night, when she tucked him away in his crib; whose first steps she directed with gentle outstretched arms, that he might fall softly in the struggle. To her, she felt confident, he would [illegible] but sure of her forgiveness [illegible] she felt sure loved him [illegible] his wickedness even more than for his innocence.

[illegible] the [illegible] was [illegible] ing in the appellate division of the supreme court.

By this time the prisoner's money was exhausted. The court assumed that the defense was abandoned, and confirmed the decision of the lower court.

It was a bitter day for Wallace, when the district attorney found no other way out of the difficulty than to direct that he be sent to Sing Sing to begin the term of his imprisonment. Protest after protest fell from his lips [illegible] but the law is [illegible] no mercy—only justice.

In all the long months of her son's incarceration in the Tombs his faithful mother worked ardently in his behalf. [illegible] evidence that would [illegible] necessary, of which she never had the slightest doubt. But the days slipped [illegible] that would see her darling in the [illegible] of a [illegible] behind the [illegible] prison walls.

In the very hour in which he crossed the threshold of Sing Sing, silently bewailing his bitter fate, his mother was [illegible] Attorney Gardiner received facts that almost proved a miscarriage of justice. The [illegible] proof [illegible] have gathered [illegible] deeply interested, made a great impression on the astute lawyer and administrator of justice.

District Attorney Gardiner lost no time in submitting the newly-discovered evidence to Judge [illegible] latter agreed that [illegible] a mistake had been made, and he issued an order to bring the prisoner back to the Tombs.

And now comes the pathetic proceeding—a pardon for an innocent man! With the circumstances before him, the district attorney drew up a report and a petition, which was sent to Governor Black.

The sweetest, yet saddest [illegible] in a mother's life drew near. Immediately on the receipt of the pardon, Mrs. Wallace came to the office. In the large, [illegible] office [illegible] on her aged cheek, fondness was in her eyes, dimmed by many tears, as she murmured: "My baby! My baby!"

Then mother and son passed out into the corridor and the street. It would have been difficult to tell which arm was twined tightest about the form of the other—the little mother's or the stalwart son's.
